

Imagine this: It's 9am in the morning when you wake up, and you realize that you are going to be late for your exam at 10am. Cursing under your breath, you rush out to the bus stop, only to see the bus leave just as you turn the corner. With few options left, you try to get a Grab to school. Surge pricing pushed the price up to $50, but beggars can't be choosers. You reach school with just minutes to spare, but as you read the paper in front of you, it dawns on you that you've been preparing for the wrong exam last night. You do your best to answer the questions but as you leave the exam hall you get this sinking feeling that most of them are going to be wrong.

When you reach home, you find a way to vent all this built-up frustrations. But how? You could go to a smash room, but you're broke after that Grab ride. You could go drown your sorrows, but you have another exam tomorrow. You could take it out on your dog, but that's animal abuse. So, how CAN you relieve this stress?

Introducing Vent It, the app to vent your frustrations. With Vent It, you can scream all your troubles away into your phone. No need to look for costly and complex ways to let some steam out; just grab your phone, launch Vent It, and scream away. Our unfriendly mascot, Red, will be there to listen.

Vent It's interface is extremely simple. Just create an account and you're a few taps away from screaming it all out. The intuitive interface also ensures that everyone can use the app easily.

Red will ensure that your experience is never dull. After hearing your scream, he will rate your scream from a scale of 30 to 120. Maybe one day you'll impress him enough to be given a full score.

Being constantly stressed and frustrated is not good for one's health. Prolonged stress has been linked to anxiety and depression, and in worse cases, heart disease. As such, it is important to de-stress from time to time, and what better way than to Vent It.